

Save the Date: 26-27 June, Commission for Environmental Cooperation's governing Council to meet in Oklahoma City

Participate in person or via webcast in a public forum on Innovation and Partnerships for Green Growth

Montreal, 20 February 2018—On 26–27 June 2018, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Administrator Scott Pruitt will host his counterparts from Mexico and Canada in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, for the annual Regular Session of the Council of the Commission for Environmental Cooperation (CEC).

The Council, the CEC's governing body composed of cabinet-level environmental authorities from Canada, Mexico, and the United States, meets each year in regular session to discuss ~~their~~ the countries' shared priorities for environmental cooperation in North America. Canada's Minister of Environment and Climate Change, Catherine McKenna, and Mexico's Secretary of Environment and Natural Resources, Rafael Pacchiano Alemán, will join Administrator Pruitt for this June's Council Session.

This year's meeting will also feature a public forum on June 26, hosted by the CEC's Joint Public Advisory Committee (JPAC), to obtain feedback on North American environmental issues. The Council Session on June 27 will include a public session, led ~~by~~ headed by the three environment ministers, focused on the theme of Innovation and Partnerships for Green Growth. It is open to the public and will be webcast ~~and~~ live at <http://www.cec.org/webcast>.

Commented [GL1]: « Webcasted » seems to be a less common use of this term?

Additional details on the program and preregistration forms will be available at www.cec.org in March.

Follow the CEC on Facebook (www.facebook.org/CECconnect) and Twitter @CECweb.